

A black and white photograph of the MIT dome at night, illuminated against a dark sky. The dome is a large, circular structure with a series of concentric rings. Below the dome is a portico with several columns. The text "MASSACHUSETTS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY" is visible on the frieze above the columns. The foreground is a dark, grassy lawn with some trees on the sides.

Problems

Abel Sanchez, John R Williams

MIT Campus | Cambridge, MA

SHORTCOMINGS OF THE WEB

- Over 2 billion unplugged
 - A large part of the world does not have access to the benefits
- Dominated by large corporations
 - Products for those with access
- Privacy from corporations and government
 - We are our data yet we do not control our data
- Censorship
 - the great firewall of China
- Provenance
 - Where does our food come from?
- Transparency and veracity
 - Government accountability
 - Fake news

Protecting Election Integrity

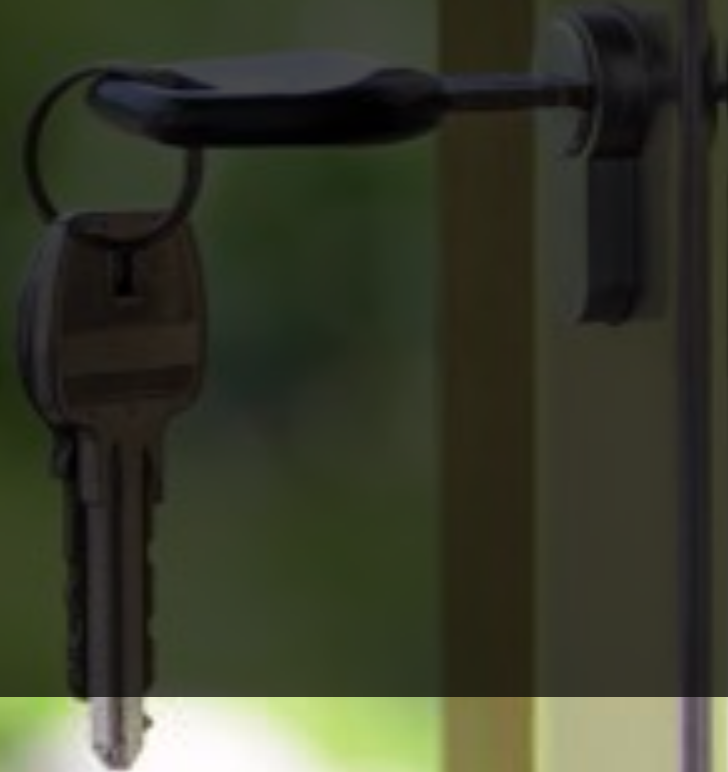

Fighting Fake News

Data Privacy

SHORTCOMINGS OF THE WEB

- The web was invented without a security model
- Some of the security problems
 - Cybercrime Industry
 - Email hacking
 - Password cracking
 - Bots
 - Phishing
 - Identity theft
 - DOS
 - Cyber Espionage
 - Datanapping

SHORTCOMINGS OF THE WEB

The background of the slide is a photograph of a high-voltage power line tower. The tower is a lattice structure, silhouetted against a sky with warm, orange and yellow hues from a low sun. The tower is positioned in the center-right of the frame, with its lines extending towards the left. The overall mood is industrial and somewhat somber.

- Security of Physical Devices
 - Internet of things
 - Exponential growth of devices (Krebs on security)
 - Electrical Power (ICS)
 - Industrial control systems (Oil & Gas)

SHORTCOMINGS OF THE WEB

- Value exchange

- The web has been about transferring copies of information.
- When it comes to value, it does not work.
- You cannot send $10 multiple times
- What do you do?
- You use a 3rd party
- Third party is not accessible to all
- Billions without access